We saw that Friday night. The Canadiens-Leafs game was the most-watched Canadian game in 10 years. The Western Conference semifinals is the first since 2005 that has sold more than three million tickets, according to TSN. It's the biggest playoff game since the 1994 Stanley Cup final. The game drew an average television audience of 2.9 million, the highest since the Western Conference final in 2013. It also topped the 1.9 million mark for the 2015 Eastern Conference final between the Penguins and the Rangers. The Canadiens-Leafs game was the third-most-watched Canadian game since the lockout. Ottawa and Toronto are the other two Canadian cities that regularly sell out playoff games. Montreal is a big draw, and now the Canadiens are one of the top teams in the Eastern Conference. The Canadiens' 15-8-3 record is the best in the Eastern Conference this season. Montreal has matched its record-setting performance in the playoffs with 13 victories, a 3-0 record against the Rangers and a 3-2 win against the Ottawa Senators in the Eastern Conference semifinal. The Habs are the only team in NHL history to win 12 games in a playoff run. Montreal has eliminated the Senators in five consecutive games and the Rangers in four consecutive games. The Habs have won the first two games in both matchups. If they can beat the Senators again Saturday, the Habs will be playing their first game at the Bell Centre on Monday, a day earlier than anyone else in the East. The playoff games in Montreal have become must-see events.Q: Why are my plots not lining up on my page?
